MONDAY, JUNE 1, 1914.

An Evening Echo.

Dip the pen of the tongue in the ink of the heart.—EDLIN.

Sheriff Stout learned that he was made a goat of by Jud Findley.

The sheriff "took" the umpire and he didn't take him either. It was actually funny.

The umpire's crime was not murder, robbery or anything so grave as that; yet the handcuffs were put on him but were not permitted to remain on him long.

Will Never Get Pauletta.

A little, sawed-off runt of a man, scarcely over five feet in height and weighing very little over 100 pounds, by the name of McCormick, completely "buffaloed" Sheriff Stout and his force of deputies a yesterday's baseball game.

McCormick was umpiring the game and resisted arrest. He refused to submit to arrest when a "John Doe" warrant was produced for him, and was allowed to come into the city without being taken into custody.

If a little man like McCormick can successfully defy a dozen county officers to arrest him, it is feared Pauletta will never be recaptured.

Woodrow's Assistant.

The Baltimore Sun, one of President Wilson's staunchest supporters, pays Colonel Roosevelt a left-handed compliment by way of expressing a mild apology for the Wilson administration to date, in the following sentences: "Next to Woodrow Wilson, the man who is doing the most efficient work for good government in this country today is Theodore Roosevelt. The latter, by maintaining the split in the Republican ranks, is inspiring as no one else could the continued control of Congress by the Democratic party. He is doing it at a critical moment. The second year of a new administration is always its weakest period." This frank avowal shows how thoroughly Democratic authority appreciates the value of the split. It affords a tacit admission, that, but for the split, the Wilson administration could never have been. It proves, too, that the Democrats could not hope to return a Democratic House of Representatives to this country but for the friendly offices of the Colonel in promising to perpetuate the party division.

The Sun's confession that the second year of Wilson's administration finds it weaker than it was during its first year, means more than appears on its face, says the Huntington Herald-Dispatch. It seeks to minimize the evidence of failure by ascribing to all administrations a sort of constitutional second-year weakness, like a baby's second summer, no doubt, and to imply that all other administrations, during their second year, have been disappointing, though crowned with glory in the end.

But the Sun's gleam, after all, may prove to be short-lived. The confession that the Democrats will not carry Congress by reason of their own record in power, but because Roosevelt has interfered to prevent a healing of the breach in the Republican party, leaves the Sun in mighty bad shape for a battle in favor of another Democratic House of Representatives, and the truth that the Sun has unintentionally uttered, when bared before the voters of the nation, will cause hundreds of thousands of former Republicans to take serious pause before they will assist the president's accredited chief assistant in making another set of Democratic congressmen. And, furthermore, Roosevelt's latest declaration is not as highly favorable to the Democrats as were some of the earlier ascriptions which followed immediately his landing.

Indeed, Colonel Roosevelt's latest statement must have proven somewhat discouraging to Democratic leaders since it was mild enough and conciliating enough to indicate that a working agreement can be reached which will, in the present dilapidated and discouraged state of the Democratic organization, result in that party's discomfiture in the coming congressional elections.

The Republicans, by assuming a reasonably progressive attitude, by maintaining the integrity of the Republican party as a party of solidarity and dependability, and by showing themselves dedicated to honest party government, guaranteeing to every Republican a free voice in party management, can surprise themselves.

dismay the Democrats and recapture the House of Representatives. This is entirely possible. But to accomplish it will require judicious action, including reorganization in many communities and just concessions in all communities. But the Republican party can do these things and be more than ever the Republican party. We thank the Baltimore Sun, President Wilson's official organ, for its generous confession.

Education in the Army.

How Uncle Sam keeps the officers and men in his army up to the top notch of efficiency is told in a special report on "Educational Systems in the American Army" in the annual report of the Commissioner of Education just issued. The statement was prepared by Capt. Douglas MacArthur and approved by General Leonard Wood.

"No country in the world has as complete a system of professional scholastic training for its officers as the United States," declares Capt. MacArthur. "This is due to the inherent difference between the military establishments of foreign nations and that of our own. Their armies are at all times kept upon a war footing, as a result of which they have ample opportunity for the perfect training of the personnel in the practical duties of the military profession."

"In such an army, the main object is to train every man for the efficient performance of his duties in the grade which he holds when war comes. A lieutenant does not dream of becoming a captain merely as the result of war except as a vacancy is made for him in the casualties of battle. Only in the same way does a captain expect to become a colonel; nor would the idea be tolerated that great numbers of trained line officers are to be suddenly transferred to various staff positions."

"Their organizations are founded upon the theory that there is nothing mysterious in the art of war; that technical and scientific training is needed by only a small portion of military officers; that certain things which a Napoleon must know, every officer must know, and can as readily acquire as he; while those things which differentiate a Napoleon from other generals can not be acquired in any school, not even in that of war."

"Such a system would be thoroughly unsound if transplanted to the American army, the organization of which is quite different from continental armies. In fact, the most striking feature in our service is the absence of what constitutes the very essence of the foreign establishments; that is, a great standing army serving in corps, divisions, and brigades, in which the average officer of any grade learns the details of his profession by practical work and with the minimum of theory."

"Our system of military education must therefore differ from that of the other great nations of the world. It must be such as to educate our officers so that they will be able at a moment's notice, when the war expansion comes, to perform the duties of far-advanced grades and to render service in branches of the army, both line and staff, in which they are not commissioned in time of peace. For this reason we have established a progressive system of schools designed to teach officers and men, limited only by their individual capacities for its assimilation, the duty of the man-in-arms in all grades from lowest to highest."

"The military educational system of the United States comprises: The Military Academy at West Point for the education of cadets, post schools for the instruction of enlisted men, garrison schools for the instruction of officers in subjects pertaining to the performance of their ordinary duties, the Army Service Schools at Fort Leavenworth, Kan., including the Army School of the Line, the Army Staff College, the Army Signal School, the Army Field Engineer School, the Army Field Service and Correspondence School for medical officers; the Special Service Schools, consisting of the Engineer School, Washington Barracks, D. C., the Coast Artillery School, Fort Monroe, Va., the Mounted Service School, Fort Riley, Kan., the Army Medical School, Washington, D. C., the School of Fire for Field Artillery, Fort Sill, Okla., the School of Musketry, Fort Sill, Okla., the Signal Corps Aviation School, San Diego, Calif., the Schools for Bakers and Cooks, Washington Barracks, D. C., and the School of San Francisco, Calif., the Training School for Saddlers and for Battery Mechanics of Field Artillery, Rock Island Arsenal, Ill., the School of Instruction for enlisted men of the regular army selected for detail for duty with the organized militia, the Engineer Trade Schools, the Army War College, Washington, D. C., the schools of instruction for college students, and the military departments of civil institutions at which officers of the army are detailed under the provisions of law."

Still cursing roundly, he gave the order to retreat, and his army of 212, already in spirit position, spurred for choice of horses. But at that moment another ill-fated army breathed the opposite hill. They were cut off, check-mated, surrounded!

Quick as a flash, General Bananza lunged down the coat of his uniform, tore off his comparatively white shirt, leaped to the top of the breastworks and waved it wildly as a signal of surrender. Both armies closed in without the firing of a single shot, but the general was so incensed when he learned that they were only American war correspondents foraging for interviews, that he sulked in his tent and refused for hours to come out and let them snap his picture.

Memorial Day

On a great national holiday like today, many people find at the last minute that there is some little thing they have forgotten whose possession is essential to the enjoyment of the day.

Where can it be had quickly? Nothing will answer the question so well and so promptly as the advertising columns of their favorite newspaper.

Each day demonstrates in its own particular way the great public service rendered by newspaper advertising.

Unless you read the advertising in your newspaper you are not alert to your opportunities.

Great Gathering.

One of the most notable gatherings in the history of West Virginia was the state convention of the Republican party held at Charleston Wednesday, May 20.

It was a remarkable gathering of patriots. No sinister influences were in any way responsible for the gathering. The meeting attested the faith which binds together the adherents of the party of Lincoln. The convention itself is the best answer to those who try to make believe that the Republican party is dead.—Spencer-Times Record.

THE DAILY NOVELETTE

THE CAPTURE.

"Retreat, retreat, retreat, retreat!"

Cried General B. Bonanza.

"All right," said Mexican Pete.

"I'll take a cocktail too-za."

General Bonanza, just then chief of the Mexican federales, peered through his field glasses over the top of the improvised breastworks of chili con carne sacks.

"Pase de Construcción!" he swore savagely.

There was no doubt about it. The khaki-clad army was making for the breastworks, and making for them fast. Overhead a few Mexican zither birds thrummed idly, but otherwise save for the steady tramp of the advancing horde, all was silence.

"The dogs have broken the armistice!" hissed the general. "Sombrero! There must be thousands of them!"

Wherein Aerolux Porch Shades

Are Different and Better

NO WHIP PORCH SHADES

NO WHIP—The term "No Whip" indicates that the Aerolux Porch Shade cannot whip or flap in the wind, a patented attachment holding it securely. If you have used a shade other than the Aerolux you will appreciate the superiority of the Aerolux in this respect.

SHADE, BUT DO NOT RETARD VENTILATION—You may draw Aerolux Shades so as to fully cover porch openings, thus entirely shutting out the glare of the sun and keeping out the rain without retarding ventilation. The value of this feature on a hot, sticky day will appeal to you.

SEE OUT BUT NOT IN—Openings between the narrow slats of the Aerolux Shades are just wide enough to permit you to see out, at the same time preventing any one outside seeing in, thus giving the privacy of a bed chamber and still permitting sufficient light and air to enter.

ADDS A DELIGHTFUL ROOM TO YOUR HOUSE—A porch completely equipped with Aerolux No Whip Porch Shades virtually adds a room to your house; a cheerful, airy lounging room by day, an admirable sleeping room by night. We carry a complete line of two grades of these shades and are sole agents for our city.

4 feet width $2.00

6 feet width $2.75

8 feet width $3.75

10 feet width $4.50

GRADE NO. 2

4 feet width $2.50

6 feet width $3.50

8 feet width $4.50

10 feet width $5.75

ECONOMICAL—Aerolux No Whip Porch Shades are the most economical shades you can buy because of their extreme durability. They will outlast several hot, stuffy canvas shades and the ill-looking "one-season" cheap wood slat or bamboo screens, which do not keep out the sun.

BEAUTIFUL—The soft, harmonious colors of the Aerolux Shade blend delightfully with all surroundings.

Wonderful Beauty In These Summer Dreases

There is a broad price range and splendid values at—
